Culture is similiar to that of Gloxinias and African Violets. Plant 5 or 6 tubers in 6 in. pot or 2 in. apart in window box or hanging basket. Sandy loam, fertile and rich in humus (wood chert moss) and well drained gives good results. They require warmth and abundant moisture during growing season. When plants become dormant in fall, withhold moisture and store tubers in 40° temperature in fairly dry sand. In Spring replant in fresh soil.
